

POUR LILY

Marie Desplechin,
illustrated by Olivier Balez

To start over from zero, Jérémie changed neighborhoods and school in the middle of the year. Shy and secretive, he has only one friend, his bike. That is until Lily says something that will shatter him. For her, he's now ready to do something he said he'd never do again.

OSCAR GOUPIL
A London Mystery

Camille Guénot

Following a family whim, Oscar finds himself doing a Christmas internship at the National Gallery in London. There he discovers a remarkable gift; the portraits speak to him. They'll even help him solve the mysterious affair of disappearing contemporary artists.

L'APPRENTI CONTEUR

Gaël Aymon,
illustrated by Siegfried de Turckheim

Little white pebbles, pumpkin carriages, boots spanning seven leagues ... Where did Charles Perreault find the inspiration for these tales? The answer: in the life of his 12-year-old son Pierre... And what if it was really Pierre who wrote those famous stories?

LA FILLE DU PHARE

Annet Schaap

Translated from Dutch by Maurice Lomré

One stormy night, a ship sank on account of an unlit lighthouse. The daughter of the guilty lighthouse keeper, Loupiote, must work for seven years in the Dark House to atone for his error. Her free spirit and independence will transform this burden into good fortune.

COMIC

SÉRAPHINE

Edith Base on a novel by Marie Desplechin

In Montmartre, 13-year-old Séraphine who was born just after the Commune, dreams of a better life, with more education and less suffering. The whole neighborhood, artisans, bighearted communards, and even Saint Rita, patron of lost causes, join together to help her...

LES SŒURS HIVER

Jolan C. Bertrand,
illustrated by Tristan Gion

Ever since she lost her sister, the oh so cheerful Little Winter, horrible Big Winter has become unhinged: blizzards, storms, disappearing objects and now Ragnar the Brave, who went hunting for them has disappeared, too. A profound tale steeped in Nordic mythology.

COMIC

LES CONTRÉES SALÉES

Hope Larson • Rebecca Mock

Translated from English by Alice Delarbre

Back from the war, Elber hopes for a calm life. But his past catches up with him: Greda, a former conquest, casts a spell on the water in the well. Vanceil, Elber's little sister, is determined to face the desert and the witches to lift the curse.

MAYDALA EXPRESS

Pierdomenico Baccalario
Davide Morosinotto

Translated from Italian by Marc Lesage

Who hasn't thought of hopping a train to escape a miserable life? That's what young Finally does to quit the Grey City heading to the World's Farthest Away Station. The trip takes place aboard the prodigious, fabulous Maydala Express!